

Vol. 66, Issue 17

Thursday, April 28, 2022

Registration Open for In-person 2022 Physician Leadership Development Conference

For the first time since 2019, the Physician Leadership Development Conference will be held in person June 16-17, 2022, at the KI Center in Green Bay. As always, this conference is available to new and senior physician leaders as well as their executive leadership team members.

As with past years, this year's agenda includes a range of physician leadership development topics that qualify for CME education. Featured instructor Dan Diamond, MD, from the American Association for Physician Leadership will teach a class on leading interdisciplinary health care teams during challenging times. To learn more about Dr. Diamond, view his bio here.

Visit WHA's event webpage for all conference information including agenda, featured presenters and registration. For questions about this conference or any WHA education opportunity, contact the WHA education team at education@wha.org.